

Where Do They Stand?

Voters in District 4 will choose between these two major candidates for Congress on November 4th.
Where do they stand on the issues affecting you and your family?

Becky Greenwald

Energy

Supports passage of the Energy Independence and Security Act, which provides tax incentives for renewable energy production, requires increased use of biofuels and is paid for by repealing tax breaks for oil companies.

— Working Families Win candidate forum, September 5th, 2008, Ames Iowa.

Trade and Jobs

Supports passage of the TRADE Act which replaces our NAFTA-style trade policy that sends jobs overseas.

Supports the Employee Free Choice Act which makes it easier for workers to join unions and makes stronger penalties for employers who use tactics that obstruct employees to join a union.

Health Care

Supports a comprehensive health care system.

“As a Member of Congress I want to get in there and make sure we address the health care needs of our country...we’ve been talking about it for decades now and have not accomplished what we need to do which is to make sure health care is available and affordable for everyone,”

— Working Families Win candidate forum, September 5th, 2008, Ames Iowa.

Tom Latham

Energy

Voted against the Renewable Energy and Energy Conservation Tax Act of 2007.

Trade and Jobs

The TRADE Act “doesn't sound like something I can support.”
“We are enforcing environmental and labor standards as much as we can tell another sovereign country to do so.”

— Tom Latham Town Hall, August 4, 2008, Garner, IA.

Voted against the Employee Free Choice Act of 2007

Health Care

Does not support a comprehensive health care system.

“There are already ways for people to get better, cheaper coverage with programs like Cobra expanded coverage, or there's multiple other programs like Hawkeye, Medicare, etc. We need to keep the focus on market-based solutions,”

— Tom Latham Town Hall, August 4, 2008, Garner, IA.

Who We Are...

Working Families Win is about changing the economy by helping people connect the dots between what's happening in Washington, and what's happening to our own families, neighbors and communities. Neighbors talking to neighbors is the best way we can take action to hold our government officials and institutions accountable and make sure they represent our needs and interests.

It's Time To Put Working Families First!

Working Families continue to fall behind in the failing economy.

Working Families Win believes that part of the reason is that decisions are being made in Washington that aren't made in the interests of working people. Years of these destructive economic policies have cost working families.

Important decisions will be made in the next Congress on issues such as health care, jobs, and our energy future. The economic security of families and communities everywhere is at stake.

Find out where the candidates stand. Insist that the candidates speak up on the issues that affect you.

Working together, we can make a difference for working families everywhere.
